Seminar LDSHP1.1: Why Closing the Generation Gap Will Not Inspire the New Generation of Employees

Description: In the fifteen years we have been conducting Law Enforcement Executive Leadership workshops, the recruitment and retention of employees is identified as one of the three top challenges facing law enforcement today. Traditional approaches to close the gap are ineffective. Why? This generation is not differentiated by a time gap, but rather a cultural one. This interactive seminar will highlight the need for and current state of the relationship between current and new generations. We will explain what sets this generation apart from others and propose ways to bridge the gap. We will show how exceptional leadership is the key to a passionate and inspired new generation employees.

Workshop: Reducing Roadway Fatalities through Traffic Incident Management (TIM): A National Model

Description: The DOT Certified National TIM Responder Training Program provides incident responders with a national curriculum developed by responders for responders. The training offers a set of practices and advanced standards to enable safer and faster clearance of traffic crashes. The four-hour, in-person training brings law enforcement, firefighters, DOT, towing, medical personnel, and other incident responders together to foster relationships and engage in interactive training. They learn how to work together in a coordinated manner, from the moment the first emergency call is made to final scene clearance and is provided free of charge. Everyone who completes the training will receive a certificate of completion. There is no required exam for the in-person training.

Seminar LDSHP2.1: MAGNUS Leadership: A Practical Application of Reversal Theory for Enhanced Officer Wellness and Resiliency

Description: Crisis happens. Volatility, Uncertainty, Complexity and Ambiguity (VUCA), coined at the Army War College in the early 1990's, is a sobering new reality for police officers nationwide. In simple terms, VUCA is chaos. It falls on law enforcement professionals to understand it, prepare for it, and minimize the disruptive and destabilizing effects of it on self, agency and the communities they serve. This workshop introduces "MAGNUS Leadership" coined by Dr. Javidi in 2016 as a practical counter VUCA for enhanced officer effectiveness, wellness and resiliency. The program is a scientific application and expansion of the Reversal Theory focusing on activating positive brain and deep emotional intelligence. It provides real imperatives learned from both the Military and Law Enforcement incidents. The workshop has received overwhelming positive response from agencies nationwide as well as Arkansas, Minnesota, Indiana, Colorado, and Badger Sheriffs Associations, WIDAJ and HIDTA. The participants will receive a Certificate of Completion from the National Command & Staff College.

Speakers: Dr. Mitch Javidi, Chancellor, National Command & Staff College; Colonel Craig S. Kozeniesky, Deputy Commander of the US MARSOC (Ret.); and Sheriff (Ret.) Ray Nash, President, Police Dynamics Inc.

Seminar PSYCH4.1: In the Mind of a Mass Murderer – Understanding Mindsets and Motives Behind Mass Casualty Crimes

Description: This seminar will examine the psychological make-up of mass murderers and explore motives and "whys" behind such acts. Violent crime motive analysis based on more than 500 psychological profiles of violent criminals will be presented, including key principles of threat assessment. Participants can expect to receive the most current research on these topics while being educated and captivated by presenters who have been on scene during a mass shooting incident and performed clinical interviews with convicted serial killers. Conversely, and importantly, participants can also expect to be primed and exposed to the effects of mass casualty incidents on

Seminar LDSHP5.1: Understanding What Real Risk Management Is All About

Description: Tragedies occur in every occupation and profession. Preventing tragedy requires understanding the difference between proximate causes and “problems lying in wait”—sometimes for years—that go ignored and lead to the given tragedy. In this engaging session, explore the difference between proximate causes and root causes, and provide strategies for recognizing problems lying in wait. Building on this foundation, the presentation will explore the specific risks facing law enforcement agencies. The 10 Families of Risk, which can be used to categorize all the risks facing law enforcement operations, will be introduced to attendees and they will learn to recognize the real risks they face in each of these families and the importance of active control measures to prevent problems from occurring. Risk Family Four – Organizational Risk Management is the most important in law enforcement. And within this family there are five main root causes of risk: people, policy, training, supervision and discipline. Each of these issues will be addressed and proven control measures to address the risks involved will be provided. You'll be shown how to recognize, prioritize, and mobilize by using examples from “similarly situated” agencies. By the end of the program, the attentive attendee will be able to: 1. Identify potential problems lying in wait in his/her respective Sheriff's Office operations; 2. Identify and implement effective control measures to address these problems; 3. Enhance the feedback loop to prevent future similar problems from occurring; 4. Learn from the mistakes of “similarly situated” law enforcement operations around America and the world; 5. Apply an expanded level of knowledge regarding real risk management to his/her specific Sheriff’s Office operations.

Sponsored By: Smiths Detection Inc.

Description: As the nationwide opioid epidemic shows no signs of slowing down, officers are encountering fentanyl at an alarming rate. There have been many cases of law enforcement personnel accidentally exposing themselves to lethal doses of fentanyl because they didn't know what they were handling. By using portable narcotics detectors and identifiers and adopting standard operating procedures, officers can quickly and accurately detect and identify the presence of fentanyl in seconds. Some detectors and identifiers can analyze a suspected narcotic without touching it at all. The risk of exposure can be greatly reduced by quickly obtaining analysis results so proper precautions, including containment, can be taken. This seminar will educate the participants on how technology can be used to safeguard against lethal exposure risks when fentanyl is suspected to be present.

Seminar PSYCH9.1: The Aftermath of Mass Casualty Events: The Psychological Impact and Response

Description: Mass-casualty events are unlike any other critical incidents and need to be responded to in a significantly different way. Mass-casualty events are beyond the norm in terms of both their medical and psychological footprints, not only on law enforcement agencies but on all elements of the community. Mass-casualty events often overwhelm the normal resiliency and resources of law enforcement agencies and their communities, due to the horror and tragedy of these unspeakable acts. This presentation will discuss the significant psychological impact that mass casualty events have on law enforcement personnel. It will present the psychological responses and interventions that can help serve to mitigate the negative long-term psychological effects of these incidents on the individual officer as well as the agency as a whole. The presenters are psychologists who have experience working with law enforcement agencies, and who have provided services to agencies in the aftermath of multiple mass casualty events, including terrorist attacks, the Sandy Hook tragedy, and the Las Vegas shooting. In addition to presenting what services were provided during these events, this presentation will highlight the lessons learned from these incidents and provide recommendations for the future in terms of best practices for dealing with a mass casualty event, both before and after the event.

Sponsored Seminar 10.1: Crowdsourcing Crime Fighting

Sponsored By: RING

Description: One of the Peelian Principles of Policing states, "The police are the public and the public are the police." How does law enforcement turn a largely disengaged population into an engaged one, in this digital age, able to not only share information more freely but increasing the desire. The public want to participate in the public safety process but too often are left lacking the tools, seeing the results of their actions or feeling their privacy is protected. This leads to lower engagement rates and more strain on law enforcement resources. Imagine a community armed with the right technology and tools to more effectively deter crime, to collaborate with law enforcement and protect their privacy. We're in the age of crowdsourcing and crowdsolving crime. Data shows a correlation of tech to results. Video and anonymous technologies are making this possible. See real examples of these processes in action, its impacts, learn what to expect and where the future is headed.

Advanced Roadside Impaired Driving Enforcement (ARIDE) Program – FREE 2 Day Sign-up Event, Must sign up in advance, see registration form

Description: ARIDE is intended to bridge the gap between the Standardized Field Sobriety Testing (SFST) and the Drug Evaluation and Classification (DEC/DRE) programs by providing officers with general knowledge related to drug impairment and by promoting the use of DREs in states that have the DEC program. The ARIDE program stresses the importance of the signs and symptoms of the seven drug categories. This course will train law enforcement officers to observe, identify, and articulate the signs of impairment related to drugs, alcohol, or a combination of both, in order to reduce the number of impaired driving incidents as well as crashes which result in serious injuries and fatalities. This course will educate other criminal justice professionals (prosecutors, toxicologists, judges, etc.) to understand the signs of impairment related to drugs, alcohol, or a combination of both, to enable them to effectively work with law enforcement in order to reduce the number of impaired driving incidents as well as crashes which result in serious injuries and fatalities. All participants must be SFST proficient, must pass SFST proficiency demonstration at time of entry into class, and complete the ARIDE registration form.

8:00 AM - 4:00 PM
